

Cape Peninsula University of Technology Retirement Fund - Communication Policy

1. Principles of communication

1.1. In terms of the policy, communication should be –

- Contemporary, friendly and attuned to the needs of members so they can be sufficiently informed to make appropriate decisions on their benefits.
- Holistic and placing critical Fund information within the context of general retirement and financial planning.
- Simple, concise and as easy to read as possible.
- Compliant with the disclosures required in terms of the Pension Funds Act, relevant PF circulars issued by the Financial Sector Conduct Authority, e.g. PF Circular No 86 and 90, and Protection of Personal Information Act (POPIA).
- Priced in such a way that it offers good value for money.
- Produced in English for printed communications.
- Accurate and not expose the Fund to legal liability for loss or damages.
- Be distributed to members in an electronic format as far as possible (to increase cost-effectiveness).
- Be aligned to the Fund's Rules and practices.

There should be clear disclaimers, so that it is not construed or interpreted as providing advice to members either by the Fund, the Board of Trustees or its advisors.

2. Outline of communication plan

The communication plan can be summarised as follows:

2.1. OBJECTIVES

- Members must be empowered to make informed decisions with regard to their retirement planning and benefit options.
- Members must be left with a positive image of the Fund.
- The Fund's communication strategy and communication issued should avoid, as far as possible, the potential for legal recourse against the Fund.
- Comply with requirements for Retirement Benefits Counselling as defined in the Pension Funds Act.
- Comply with any legislative requirements including, but not limited to, Circulars, Conduct Standards, Guidance Notes and POPIA.
